

SHE CAME FROM MONTVILLE

"My stomach was in such bad condition that no matter what I ate, I would vomit it right up," says Grace Gardner of Maine Street, Montville, Conn. I had three doctors but received little or no benefit. After I had started taking the second bottle of Goldine I began to feel improvement until now I can eat things that I never would think of eating before. Gas would come up on me and strangle me so that many a time I thought I was going, as I would just gasp for breath. Once I had to be worked over for more than half an hour as I could not get my breath, and I thought surely I would die. My appetite is so much better now that I feel like eating most everything and as yet nothing that I have eaten has bothered me. I cannot tell you how grateful I am to the man who discovered Goldine. I used to feel so drowsy that I could hardly keep awake. Now I am full of life and ambition. Everyone tells me how much better I am looking and I certainly know I feel it. I sleep just fine and mornings wake up refreshed and full of life."

Goldine is sold in Norwich by G. G. ENGLER.

Mrs. F. P. Hunt was greatly benefited by Goldine.

WESTERLY

Armistice Day's second anniversary was fittingly observed in Westerly and a creditable parade was held, especially when it is considered that it was but one day for preparation. Governor Beebe proclaimed a legal holiday and that carried with it the closing of the banks, and there was to have been no other local observance of the day. There was a meeting of the American Legion, and it was then decided to have the parade, the schools and the manufacturing industries close for the afternoon, and to feature the event with a parade. Committees were appointed and the details of the former service men was achieved.

There was more or less enthusiasm and applause as the parade passed but the enthusiasm was infectious in comparison with that demonstrated on the day the armistice was signed, and when the service men who marched Thursday were not in Westerly. Some were on the battlefield of France, while others were in the service elsewhere on land or sea, and wherever assigned to duty. Westerly is proud of her soldiers and sailors, proud of their achievements, proud of every man who served his country in time of war, and proud of the fact that no soldiers fought more bravely, or more heroically than did the boys who represented Westerly on the battlefields. In proposition to population, Westerly's casualties were above the average, the army being represented by 129 uniformed men and the navy by twenty men in uniform. Many former service men for lack of uniform, or other cause did not participate in the march.

Veterans of the Civil War rode in automobiles, immediately following the young participants in the World War, then came the two former state and companies of Westerly and Pawtucket, the Boy Scouts, and the Red Cross, D. A. R., and W. R. C. in automobiles. The procession halted at the town hall, the speakers forming on a raised platform, and the closing exercises of the day were held. The band played a patriotic air, and Rev. Edmund J. Cleveland, pastor of Christ Episcopal church, was served as army chaplain, made a prayer, and explained the significance of the day, how it recalled the heroic dead and symbolized that those who died for country did not die in vain. He said that the unknown man who won the war, not the leaders, nor the statesmen, but the unknown man who bore the burden of the war, who was told to die, it is the unknown man who brought peace, and it is the unknown man who will make the world prosperous and a decent place in which to live.

The band played another patriotic air, and Commander Fourgon A. Babcock, of Merrill post, American Legion, bestowed victory medals issued by the war department to former service men. The band played The Star Spangled Banner, the bugler sounded Taps, and the first public observance of Armistice Day in Westerly was at an end.

Wayland A. Stillman, after reading of the finding of a Franklin penny, the first copper coin to be authorized by congress, on the homestead of one of the first settlers of Dover, Mass., looked over his beautiful collection of copper coins, and among them was a Franklin penny, which he picked up years ago on the Stillman farm on Potter Hill road. It was struck off in 1787 and is one of the few that were coined. The penny took its name from Benjamin Franklin because of the inclusion in its design of the homely admonition "Mind Your Business."

On one side of the coin are thirteen stars, and on the other is the word "EUREKA." On the reverse is a dial with the hours indicated, a meridian sun above it, on one side of which is the word "FRIGID," and on the other the date 1787. Below the dial appears the Franklin phrase, "Mind Your Business."

The annual roll call and answer at the Broad Street Christian church was held Wednesday evening about 15 members responding, when Clerk Samuel Olvera called the roll. President Charles Kebbs presided and addresses were made by the pastor, Rev. Philip A. Sizer, and Dr. A. W. Phelps, the latter speaking of The Future of Westerly. There was a pleasing musical programme, which included songs by Mrs. Isaac Smith and Wilfred Blackburn. The year has been one of the most successful in the history of the church.

As told on the local page of The Bulletin Thursday, while chopping wood on Wednesday afternoon, in the employ of A. C. Tillinghast in Ledyard, Arthur Hubbard, 46, was instantly killed. The medical examiner of the town of Ledyard could not be located, and Dr. F. W. A. was medical examiner for Groton, was summoned. After completing his investigation, he gave a permit for the removal of the body to a morgue in Pawtucket.

Mr. Hubbard is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Albert Tillinghast of Central Ledyard and Miss Delsey Fay Hubbard of Ledyard; also by two brothers, Fred and Oscar Hubbard.

At a meeting of Westerly Branch, Red Cross, it was decided that the annual membership campaign for Westerly will include also a campaign for funds to be used purely for home service work, to commence next Thursday and continue for one week, closing simultaneous with the national campaign. Treasurer James M. Pendleton was elected cash, and the coming campaign. Chairman H. and H. Davis presided. There is at present $5,583 in the treasury.

The church bells did not ring at 11 o'clock, Thursday morning to commemorate the signing of the armistice.

The expenses of operating the Rhode Island hospital during the year ending October 1, exceeded the income from all sources by about $100,000.

The state returning board declared no election of a representative from the second district to the general assembly, and a new election will be held. Edwin August, republican, and Joseph A. Bonveolour, democrat, each received 225 votes.

Flags were generously displayed in honor of Armistice day and for the first time a flag was raised over the main entrance to the First Baptist church.

The past office was closed from 1 to 5, Thursday afternoon.

At a social session of the choir of the Pawtucket Seventh Day Baptist church, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Taylor, the pastor, Rev. Clayton A. Burdick, gave an informal talk on the "Experiences With Chords."

So far as known there were no stores open in Westerly on the afternoon of Armistice day, except a few operated by residents of foreign descent, who never close their doors, during business hours.

STONINGTON

While playing football Wednesday afternoon, on the railway station plaza, Manuel Nixie, 17, fell and sustained a fracture of his right leg.

The special committee to investigate the school conditions of the town, has completed the report, which is now being printed, for presentation to a special town meeting.

Dr. and Mrs. James H. Weeks attended the meeting in New London, Thursday afternoon, of the New London County Churches and Ministers, in recognition of the 20th anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrims.

Thursday was the birthday of Chief Ed. P. Teal, of the Stonington Fire department. He is the oldest active fireman in service.

Former service men were entertained at supper Thursday evening as guests of the Woman's Relief corps.

BOLTON

Michael Daley, 58, died in the hospital at Baltimore Saturday from typhoid fever. He was born in County Cork, Ireland, coming to the United States when a young man. Mr. Daley went from his home in Bolton to New York, where he was a well known jockey. He spent much time on his Bolton farm, where he was engaged in horse training and breeding. He married Miss Eliza E. Daly of this place, who survives him with three daughters, Misses Elizabeth Daly and Margaret Daly of this place and Mrs. George Finnegan of Oshing, N. Y. He leaves six sisters, Mrs. Michael Sheridan of Manchester, the other five residing in Bolton and Newton Center, Mass. Mr. Daley and the Misses Daly were with Mr. Daley at his death.

The body was brought to his Bolton home Sunday. The funeral was held at St. James' church, South Manchester, Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock. Burial was in St. James' cemetery. Mrs. Daly and family have the sympathy of all. Just over two years ago Michael Daley, Jr., died in France, where he was in the U. S. service.

A meeting in the interest of education was held at the Center Monday evening. The speaking contest was between the representatives of the four schools. Little Miss Tier Gagliardone of the South school was voted the best speaker. The speaker from the Mountain district was voted second best. Addresses were made by Supervisor S. C. Staples and Mr. Garrison who spoke on consolidation.

Friday, the 12th, the following party leaves for Bolton to attend the national grange meeting: Mrs. J. W. Phelps, Mrs. R. E. Jones, Misses Annie M. Alford, Adella N. Leons and Olive Hutchinson, also Maxwell Hutchinson.

Mrs. Jennie T. Bolton and son, Leslie S. Bolton, are spending the week end in Bolton, making the trip by automobile.

Last Sunday was Mary Sunday at the local churches. The music prepared was greatly enjoyed. A part of it was a quartet.

To Overcome Anemic Conditions

WHICH ARE MUCH MORE COMMON THAN FORMERLY

Anemic conditions are much more common than generally supposed. If you feel tired, listless, nervous, if you are a target for disease, why not therefore, benefit by the experience of so many people in this city who have been restored to health by Vinol, the cod liver oil and iron strengthener, blood and body-builder.

Vinol is not a patent medicine as all its ingredients are named on every package and it contains just the elements needed to enrich the blood enabling it to carry strength and vitality to every part of the body.

Your druggist sells it, and will refund your money if it fails to benefit you.
